Arthur Cummings Gets

M. B. Saum Property
Mr. Arthur Cummings purchased the M. B. Saum property, at Main and North streets, South Portland, Me.

North streets, at sheriff's sale last Saturday. There were several bidders to start as the property is a very desirable one, especially the location. While Mr. Cummings has not announced any definite plans it is understood he will move the present house to the North end of the lot and erect a modern home where the present house stands. Mr. Cummings will move to town within the next few months, having rented his farm to Wm. Frame. The addition of another modern home on North Main street will add greatly to that section. By improving the present house another residence will be available for rent at some time in the future. Cedarville extends welcome to Mr. Cummings and his family. A new record price for real estate was set when the Saum property sold for $4605.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This week has been set aside as "Fire Prevention Week." It is well that we have our attention called at least once a year to precaution about fires. It is well at this season of the year because we are soon ready for the gas stove, the coal heater or the furnace.

With all our modern inventions about car factories, our stores and our homes the loss in this country as the result of fires is astounding. It is not denied that the largest majority of our fires are caused from carelessness by not cleaning up when we should.

It has been said that the more fire insurance that is in force the more careless we become, as a people. No one can have a fire without financial loss, unless it is a fire wherein a sham stock of merchandise is housed. Because you have insurance is no reason that you should not be cautious.

Now is the time to examine the chimneys about the house. See that the furnace pipe is in good condition. Have rubbish cleared from the attic and the cellar. Never use a chimney for a coal fire if gas has been used until it is inspected by one who knows how to make such an inspection.

Do not use rubber hose for gas stove connections. Never sleep in a room that has an open gas stove and no flue connection.

Electrical appliances should be inspected once a year. Never permit an electric switch to become faulty.

By not observing some of these "don'ts" you may lose your home, and possibly your life. Do not be the cause of anybody losing their life through your carelessness.

EGGS—GOOD AND BAD

Remember the good old days when there were only two kinds of eggs—good and bad? There were no shades of variations in size and no "grades." That's all changed now with our modern method of merchandising.

Read the advertisements in the city papers and see how many different kinds of eggs city people can buy. One ad writer says "Eggs—fresh laid by young chicks!" One would think that something new had been discovered in being able to get eggs from young chicks. A New York paper says "Newly laid up-State eggs."

A chain story grocery ad reads: "Fresh barn yard eggs." An eating house serves nothing but "Strictly fresh Western Eggs." The best one we found in a hurried scan of the metropolitan sheet was: "White Eggs for invalids."

Old-timers and folks who aren't so finicky will wonder just why it is necessary to advertise the age of the egg producers. A good old hen who has laid a respectable life should be able to produce as delicately flavored breakfast egg as any "chick."

These fancy phrases can't have any other purpose than to influence the purchaser and make him believe he is getting the best the market affords. We are not living in the age when we had only two kinds of eggs—good and bad. In those days a good egg was a good one, and the bad egg—well it usually was taken out and buried.

DRINK OX BLOOD—LIVE LONG

Seferino Ramos, aged 126, lives at San Antonio, Texas. He is said to be the oldest man in the world and is reported to be in good health, working happy and still active. Ramos attributes his long life to drinking a glass of ox blood every morning before breakfast. He holds two jobs, works in a meat-packing plant from 5 to 6 o'clock, goes home, drinks some more ox blood and then becomes a night watchman until midnight.

Drinking ox blood is not a new thing. We can recall many years ago, seeing the ansanics drive up to the slaughter house and quaff a tin cup of rich, red blood. No doubt it was more beneficial than the old-fashioned toddy. It should have been for it was a great deal harder to drink. Ox blood is still available if you care to hang around the places where they kill cattle and those who care to remain in this vale of tears for more than a hundred years are given this tip free of charge.

FLORIDA AND THE RED CROSS

Contributions to the relief fund of the Red Cross have been slow. This noble organization made a call for aid for stricken Florida. Reports out of Florida as to conditions are somewhat contradictory. The Red Cross can be relied upon to give the public the true situation. Reports from the city officials in Miami and the real estate operators, must be weighed and taken with a grain of salt.

The Red Cross says that several thousand poor people are homeless and in distress. The hot air boomers say conditions are not bad—come on down and invest your money. Spend your winter in Miami.

With such conflicting reports the public has not given to this fund as has been the case in other communities where fire, flood, and cyclone have played havoc. We take it that conditions are far worse in Florida than it is pictured. The situation has been kept under cover to attract the winter tourist.

There have been reports of so much wealth in and about Miami that the public is skeptical about the call for aid. There are no reports tending to show that the "Get-rich quick" crowd in that section has done anything for the unfortunate.

Lesson for October 10

THE REPORT OF THE SPIES

LESSON TEXT—Numbers 13:17-14:16. GOLDEN TEXT—"We are well able to serve him."

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Brave Spies. JUNIOR TOPIC—Against Fear. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Brave and the Cowardly Spies. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Courage of Faith.

1. The Spies Sent Out (13:17-20). Less than two years have passed since the Israelites were delivered from Egyptian bondage. They are now at Kadesh-Barnea within sight of the promised land. Moses urged them to go in and see the land immediately (Deut. 1:21).

The record in Deuteronomy 1:19-25 shows that God did not take the initiative in sending out the spies, but that the people because of lack of faith made the request. There was a threefold purpose in sending out the spies.

1. To see whether the land was as God had told them (v.18).

2. To see whether the people who dwell there were strong or weak, few or many (v.19).

3. And to see whether the cities were walled or of strongholds or of tents (v.19).

11. The Commission Executed (13:21-22).

They entered the land from the south and traversed it to its northern limits. On their return from the north they gathered some specimens of the fruit of the land.

111. The Spies Rendered a Report (13:23-33).

1. The majority report (vv. 23-26).

(1) The land floweth with milk and honey (v. 27).

As a proof of it they displayed the fruit.

(2) The people who live there are strong (v. 28).

(3) The people lived in walled cities (v. 29).

(4) The land is inhabited by giants (v. 28, cf. 33).

In comparison with the inhabitants of the land they saw themselves as grasshoppers. Furthermore, they saw the people so distributed—the Amalekites in the south country, the Hittites, Jebusites and Amorites in the mountains, and the Canaanites along the seacoast—that it was impossible to conquer them.

2. The minority report (vv. 30-33).

In part this report agreed with the first. It did not ignore the difficulties nor dispute the facts, but it did deny the conclusion of the majority. They did not minimize the task before them, but asserted with God's help that they were well able to get possession of the land, and urged immediate action.

11. The Rebellion of the People (14:1-4).

This rebellion began by crying (vv. 1-3). They lifted up their voices, and cried, and the people wept that night. They even wished that they had died in the wilderness or in Egypt. God took them home to wander in the wilderness for thirty-eight years.

2. Proposition to return to Egypt (vv. 4-10).

Their crying was followed by a proposal to organize for the return to Egypt. They proposed to select a captain at their head. Joshua and Caleb protested against this, which so exasperated the people that they were about to stone them. At this point God interposed in their behalf.

3. God's wrath upon the people (vv. 11-12).

Because of their unbelief He proposed to smite them with pestilence and to disinherit them, supplanting them with a nation mightier than they.

4. Moses' intercession in behalf of the people (vv. 13-19).

Moses pleaded with God against this judgment because the Egyptians would hear of it and blaspheme and this they would pass on to the other nations, saying that God was not able to bring them into the land.

5. The Lord's response to Moses' plea (v. 20-26).

He assured Moses that He had granted pardon according to his intercession, but told him that although He would bring them into the land according to His promise, yet with the exception of Joshua and Caleb the men of that generation should be debarred.

6. The presumption of the people (vv. 40-45).

Having in unbelief refused to go up at the command of Moses, now in presumption they go. Moses advised them against such presumption, saying, "The Lord will not be with you."

No Secrets to Making Perfect Cup of Coffee

Can Be Achieved By Following A Few Simple Rules Says Famous Cooking Expert

By Mildred Maddocks Bentley
Formerly Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

What is the secret of first-rate coffee—the kind that starts the day right—that makes you feel "like a million dollars"?

Literally hundreds of women—and a surprising number of men—have asked me this question in one form or another. And it's an important one—for what can be more blighting to domestic happiness than a cup of muddy coffee or coffee improperly "creamed"? And, on the contrary, what can be more exhilarating than a good cup—fragrant, golden, delicious?

Luckily there's no hidden secret about making and serving the perfect coffee—it's just a matter of minding your y's and q's and following a few simple directions.

Selection of Coffee
There are many excellent brands of coffee in the market—the choice of one of these is largely a matter of individual taste. But I do want to say that usually coffee in the bean retains its flavor longer than in the ground form—so, if possible, buy the whole beans and grind your coffee fresh for each meal. If, however, the breakfast hour—or fifteen minutes—is too hectic to admit of this extra step, at least keep your ground coffee in an airtight container—a glass jar, for instance. And it's well to remember that the more finely the coffee is ground, the easier it is to extract its full strength and flavor—consequently finely-ground coffee is economical and time-saving.

The Coffee Pot
Connoisseurs maintain that coffee brewed in a metal pot has a less delicate flavor than in a container of glass, stone-ware or agate. Whatever kind of coffee pot you prefer—it should be secured frequently and occasionally "boiled out" with water to which a pinch of baking soda has been added—then rinsed, dried, and left uncoversed.

If a percolator is used, the p.c. should be carefully washed every day with a brush to remove all scum from the preceding brew. For drip coffee, if you do not have a special drip coffee pot, an ordinary one equipped with a double cheesecloth bag will serve the purpose. The cheesecloth should be washed in cold water after using and renewed at least once a week. Keep the bag always moist.

The "Creaming"
This I consider quite as important as the actual brewing. Good coffee can so easily be spoiled by using cream of inferior quality or the "top of the bottle" if carelessly poured off. In my study of food habits, I am finding that every year more and more people prefer sweetened condensed milk in their coffee. You see this kind is twice as rich and creamy as ordinary milk and, furthermore, already contains sugar, thus serving the additional purpose of sweetening the coffee. Try it for a few days, and I think you will agree that the condensed milk gives a delightfully rich, smoothly blended drink, bringing out the real coffee flavor. And of course it is very convenient, as it keeps fresh without ice even after the can is opened—and the cost is extremely moderate.

Brewing
Now as to the actual methods of brewing. There are several and your choice is entirely a matter of individual taste. If the directions are carefully followed, any of the methods will yield the "perfect cup of coffee"—mellow in flavor, with a delicate, fragrant aroma, free from sediment and of a dark golden hue.

Boiled Coffee
Place the pot with hot water, put the coffee in the pot—about one rounded tablespoon of medium-ground coffee to each cup of boiling water, with an additional spoon "for the pot." Add a little white of egg, stirred out, and about one-fourth cup of cold water, stirring briefly. Add the boiling water, place the coffee pot over heat, and bring to a full boil. Place on back of the stove or over low heat for about ten minutes to settle, before serving. Do not allow the coffee to become unsettled by careless pouring.

Percolated Coffee
Use one cup of finely-ground coffee to six cups of hot water. Place the coffee in the strainer in the upper part of the pot and let the water bubble up through the tube, percolating through the coffee into the lower part, until the coffee is of the desired strength, five minutes using the usual time required. Serve at once. Coffee made in a percolator is not good if allowed to cook after the required strength is reached.

Drip Coffee
Place the pot by running in hot water, and wet the strainer. Measure carefully the coffee (finely-ground) allowing one rounded tablespoon to each cup of water. Place in the dipper and pour boiling water through the coffee very slowly. Cover and let stand to drip through and serve immediately. Do not allow the brew to cool. If service is delayed, place the pot in or over hot water. Never reheat by placing over the fire.

Steeped Coffee
In making steeped coffee use one rounded tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water used, with an additional spoon for the pot. Add cold water. Place over the fire and bring slowly to the boiling point. Either let stand for a moment to settle or add a little cold water.

Remember—the best coffee will lose its flavor if allowed to stand. Coffee should always be freshly made and served piping hot, as soon as it is brewed. If necessary to let stand, the pot should be tightly covered and the spout closed by stuffing with soft cloth or paper, so that none of the aroma and flavor may be lost.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

THE FALL IS INEVITABLE

Elmer Glyn speaks in a recent article of those who are digging for a fall.

She says that the term is well understood by all hunting men, and she applies it to many cases of domestic life.

There is no doubt that there are many people persisting in a course of conduct which anyone with common sense can see must end in disaster. Everybody sees this except the persons concerned.

The nagging wife ought to know that her actions are constantly alienating the affections of her husband and in time will destroy them. Strange that she goes on creating her own calamity!

The boy who is drinking knows that he is undermining his health, ruining his business prospects, and bringing grief to his parents. The fall is inevitable, and he rides gaily towards it. No advice nor guidance seems to help him.

The girl who persists in imprudent conduct is ruining her own chances of happiness. For the sake, however, of some contrary idea about her own independence, she goes headstrong forward.

Many a man in business pursues a policy which in the end will ruin him, but he seems to keep it up in spite of all that anyone can say.

There is many a husband who treats his family in a way that will destroy their respect for him, and alienate them from him. Nothing, however, prevents him from continuing his course of conduct.

It would seem that there is no remedy for these determined miscreants except the golden ax.

There is a certain cumulative momentum in wrong headedness that drives people forward to their destruction, and how to stop this is a serious question.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Is It This Week?

If your birthday is this week you have a strong, clear mind, and great abilities. You are cautious, careful, and far from reckless. You are positive and masterful. You were born to command—and you generally do. You are impatient of dictation and interference, and rather blunt and forcible in telling people to keep out of your way. Fear is no part of your make up, and you are apt to be tyrannical and devoid of feeling. You perform your duties with faithfulness and completeness, and expect others to do the same. You have a strong will, and are quick to decide and act.

You are a good talker, a great mimic, and a jovial good fellow, with your friends. You learn readily, retain what you learn, and usually reach a brilliant position.

While you like to consider yourself infallible, when convinced that you are wrong, you make a most thorough and complete acknowledgment of it.

Men born during these dates become statesmen, politicians, organizers, reformers, preachers, merchants and manufacturers. Women become social workers, institution heads, nurses, actresses, and business executives.

Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, was born October 4th. Jennie Lind, opera singer, was born October 6th.

Annie Besant, writer and lecturer, was born October 1st.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)
"The anxiety of some people to make new friends is so intense that they never have time to have old ones."
"Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves."

HOW TO BE THRIFTY

If we study the early lives of those who have amassed great wealth we will find that they have been careful, saving and economical. As a whole those who have achieved great wealth are not wasteful in spending what they have earned.

It is in the little things and small leaks and wastes that, multiplied by hundreds, make great wastes in many homes. Example is the most important incentive in teaching children thrift; if the mother would teach her children wise spending, she must be thrifty herself.

How many women leave the soap in the dishpan and in the scrubbing pail all through the time of using. Instead of using the soap suds and removing it when the water is sufficiently soapy? Small bits of soap may be used up in the sink or if a cake is used keep it in a dish nearby when needed.

When cooking over such heat as gas or electricity use triplicate dishes on one burner; in this way three foods may be cooked with less expense.

Let us occasionally remind our selves that a nickel is the interest on a dollar for a year, and it is not parsimony to save, but something that we should be proud that we can do in these days of high living.

Small bits of butter, too small to seem of any value, may be placed together and in a short while there will be enough to season a dish of vegetables. Cold coffee added to ginger bread instead of water saves the coffee, adds a flavor and thus improves the cake. Cold coffee used with gelatin makes a delicious dessert, added to spice cake instead of milk. It is an improvement.

A good motto to hang in every kitchen, where there is much opportunity for waste, is "Let Nothing Be Wasted."

What is true of the kitchen will follow in the rest of the house. Care and thoughtfulness will keep down expenses.

Means Success for Our Store

Everything We Sell Must Prove Worthy—Must Give Satisfaction. Here Are Typical Values—High In Quality—Low In Price

A Man Who Was Unfortunate

A story is told of a Spaniard peasant who worked hard for seventeen years to carve a home for himself out of a solid rock. It is easy to imagine that he was compelled to practice great thrift and economy during those long years.

What a pity that there were no J. C. Penney Company Stores in Spain so that this Spaniard might have enjoyed the important savings which our patrons in this country enjoy.

Low prices coupled with high quality is the combination which the tremendous buying power of this Nation-wide institution makes effective for all our stores.

This thrift item is for you!
